

On the 1st April 2017, Rev'd Chloe will be travelling to Peru to spend a few days assisting a community project in activities such as basic construction work, painting, gardening & refurbishment in the Sacred Valley near Cusco.

The group will then embark upon the Salkantay trail which follows an ancient and remote Inca footpath, where massive snow-capped mountains collide with lush tropical rain forests, trekking at times at an altitude of 4600m.

Why? As part of the chaplaincy team at St Margaret's Hospice, I have seen so many people touched by the tremendous care and service they give to each and every patient and their family & friends. I am committed to raising £3,500 for the hospice before I can do this trek. The deposit which covers many of the costs involved has already been paid, so the hospice gets maximum benefit. If you think you can help me with fundraising events that would be awesome.
